PRISONS, REBELLION, CRIME
OUR FLY-CATCHING PARENT
A NEW STANDARD LADY
—By Arthur Brisbane—(Copyright 1929, By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SOMETHING is wrong with our prisons. There is something to think about seriously in connection
with our desperate crime wave.
For the second time this year,
prisons in Auburn, N. Y., following
desperate uprisings in other prisons,
seizing the warden and a dozen
guards, having killed the head
keeper.

Bombs, bullets, tear gas and determination will end this rebellion.
The men are desperate, defying death. But the intelligence of their leadership is not high.

The public will wonder at these repeated outbreaks in American
prisons, the most desperate of all
only recently in the state of Colorado—five prison uprisings within a few months.

How is it that crime diminishes in Europe with prisons offered for rent for industrial or other useful
purposes, while we have a steadily
rising crime wave in this country?

Is it that bootlegging has financed crime on a gigantic scale,
or is it part of a general disregard
for law promoted by "respectability," the "upper classes"
flouting a prohibition law because
it happens not to please them?

Whatever the cause, the results
are serious, and the nation will have to do more than talk about them.

William J. Bryan used to say "You can have monkeys in your family,
but I don't want any in my family."

What would he think if Dr. Harriett Outler Waterman, learned lady of the American Museum of Natural History, could tell him that
one of his ancestors was the "fly-
catching lemur," an inferior cousin
of the ape, that walked around on
his hind legs leaping into the air,
catching flies and birds with its hands?

That's what the learned lady says
and she can prove it.

But what difference does it make? All life on this planet comes from the same source which rules
the universe.

Why should we complain if we
had humbler terms in the beginning?

Mr. Bryan would have been much surprised to see himself as he looked eight months before he was born. A fly-catching lemur would look like Michael Angelo's Moses,
compared with Bryan at that age.

The United States Bureau of Standards says the ideal woman is now the "perfect 34," not the perfect 36 of days before the "boyish
figure."

If your bust is 36, your waist
should measure 31 inches, hips 39
inches.

Thirty-four bust, 28-inch waist,
37-inch hips, is the "standard lady,"
according to the Bureau, which,
however, knows nothing about it.

Abraham Lincoln's mother wasn't
a "standard 34," nor was "Bertha
With the Big Feet," mother of Charlemagne.

For a coat model the "perfect 34"
is ideal, perhaps.

For an efficient mother, which is what counts, bigger busts, bigger waists, bigger hips.

RAYMOND YATES'
TERM EXPIRES

Davidson Will Succeed
Hiddleston As Head
Of Group

Two members of the Salem board
of health submitted resignations
which will become effective January 1, 1930, at the board's meeting Friday night.

J. R. Stratton and Joseph Calla-
dine resigned positions with the board. Stratton's term was not scheduled to expire until December, 1931, while Calladine's term
would have expired December 30, 1930.

Calladine resigned due to his election to city council, a position he will take next year. Stratton submitted his resignation for business
reasons.

Four changes will be made in the board when it convenes for its first meeting in January of the new year. Dr. T. T. Church, health commissioner announced today. Mayor-elect John M. Davidson will succeed
Mayor Phil G. Hiddleston as president of the board and will also
make three appointments to fill vacancies on the board.

The term of Raymond Yates, appointed by Mayor Phil G. Hiddleston
to fill the unexpired term of Lee S.
Lanpher, now a resident of Jacksonville, Fla. will expire at the close of this month. Davidson will fill this vacancy by appointment in addition to the two caused by the resignations of Stratton and Calladine.

Two Will Remain
Terms of Homer M. Silver and
Dr. J. M. McGee will not expire
until 1932 and 1933, respectively.
These men will be the only members from the year 1929 who will be
in office on the health board during the next two years.

Dr. Church submitted his monthly health report to the board last night, announcing that there were 20 deaths and 13 births in the city
during the past month. Deaths and births occurred in wards as follows:

First ward, three deaths, four
births; Second ward, eight deaths,
six births; Third ward, three deaths,
one birth; Fourth ward, six deaths,
two births.

Deaths occurred at the following
ages:

Under one month, two; between
one and two years, one; between 10
and 20, one; 20-30, one; 30-40, two;
40-50, one; 50-60, four; 60-70, three;
70-80, two; 80-90, three.

Two deaths resulted from automobile accidents.

There were 48 communicable
diseases in the city during the month. Chicken pox led with 41
cases.

Police Arrest Women Shoplifters at Work

Dayton, O., 14.—Just write down any pretty name and designate Washington, D. C., as our address as that is the one town we like best of all as it has such a pretty name, four fashionably
dressed and comely women told
the desk sergeant at local police headquarters where they are being held
today on shop-lifting charges.
They refused to divulge their real
names.

Stolen merchandise which was
valued at $500 was recovered by police from the quartet's large and expensive automobile.

Their arrest occurred after detectives watched them take articles
from the counters of several downtown stores, pass out of the stores
and place the goods in their automobile.

It is alleged by local police that
the women are notorious shoplifters.

Lionel Smith To Enter In Contest

Lionel Smith, Salem, will participate in the Prince of Peace declamation contest which will be held in the Lisbon Presbyterian church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

Four boys and girls will take part in the event. Smith recently won first honors in a contest held at the Methodist church here.

Retains Counsel

GEORGE NICK, held in the coun- ty jail charged with the murder of Christie Bazaras at Lisbon last Tuesday afternoon will be defended at his trial by Attorneys Homer H. Hickling of Salem and George T. Farrell of Lisbon, it was announced today.

Whether or not Nick will set up
insanity as a defense has not been determined by his counsel.

Thomas Beakes, a restaurant
owner at Jackson, Mich., a relative
of the defendant came to Lisbon
Thursday to engage counsel.

The funeral of Bazaras was held at the Eells funeral home at 2 o'clock this afternoon, a priest from a Greek church at Youngstown attending. Burial was made in the Lisbon cemetery.

MYSTERY MAN DIES IN CHASE; NAME UNKNOWN

Police Pursue Machine
After Suspicious
Actions

Fremont, O., Dec. 14.—The identity of a mysterious man, who led police in a merry chase and gun battle, which ultimately ended in his death, is being sought by police here
today.

Police cruising about on the lookout for run-runners, gave chase
when a coupe which was driven by
the unidentified man drove past
them and dashed through a red
traffic light. The suspect abandoned
his car when a shot from Deputy Stern's gun blew out a tire and he fled across a field under a hail
of bullets.

Highway workers formed a posse
and helped the police in surrounding the woods. In making his dash for freedom, the man almost ran into Deputy Pask. He fired and missed
the officer and then sped in another direction. While climbing a fence, he was killed by a shot from Officer Few.

In the machine of the dead man,
who was described as being between 35 and 40 years old, partly bald, 5
feet 7 inches tall and weighing about 145 pounds, a box of cigars and an empty five-gallon can were found.
The car bore false license plates.

Senate President At O. S. U. Expires

Columbus, O., Dec. 14.—Samuel J.
Selbert, 21, resident of the student senate at the Ohio State university
here and one of the campus leaders,
died here early today from influenza after an illness of about two weeks.

He was a member of the Sphinx,
senior honor society and of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, besides numerous other campus activities.

Bill Submitted To Help Agriculture

Washington, Dec. 14.—Declaring
the farmers' troubles are due to national prohibition, Rep. Black (D)
of New York, introduced a bill to aid agriculture by permitting farm
cooperatives to make wine, beer and industrial alcohol.

This, Black said, would provide
a market for millions of bushels
of grain each year.

SALEM LODGE GIVEN HONOR

Patriarchs Militant Are Awarded High Grade
For Work

Salem canton No. 11, Patriarchs Militant, was given the highest grade awarded for work, when Captain George Krumlauf, of Canton,
conducted the annual inspection of the canton Friday evening at the Lisbon Broadway ave.

Officers elected for the ensuing year at this session are: Captain, L.
S. Strawn; lieutenant, F. L. Graber;
ensign, Harry Rupert, accountant, F.
L. Stewart; clerk, W. P. Davis.

B. B. Burnett was chosen to represent the canton at the department council at Belfontaine in July.

Other officials of the Canton
canton accompanied Captain Krumlauf and talks were given.

The Ladies Auxiliary officers
elected last evening are: President, Mrs. Harry Rupert, of East Palestine; vice president, Mrs. Guy
Mushrush, Sebring; secretary,
Mrs. Jacob Shriver; treasurer, Mrs. Mabel Arnold. They will be installed at the January meeting.

Captain B. B. Burnett of Salem
canton conducted the annual inspection of the auxiliary and complimented the members for the work.

After the meetings there was a social period with lunch.

found on the raid.

MELVIN HORST MET DEATH BY AUTO, IS CLAIM

Prosecutor Doubts Story;
Others Feel It To Be True

ALLEGED YOUTH
BURIED BODY

Driver Is Too Point Out
Spot Where Grave Is Located

Wooster, O., Dec. 14.—Prosecutor Marion Graven today stated he was not inclined to believe that Melvin Horst's grave would be pointed out
by a youth who is reported to have killed the boy accidentally with an automobile and then to have buried
him in a field north of Orrville, the to's home.

Melvin disappeared from the streets of that Wayne county village
two nights after Christmas last year. No trace of him has been found despite nearly a year's search
by authorities and famous detectives.

The latest development in the case was the publication of reports
that a Northeastern Ohio business man would go to Orrville today and point out the grave of Melvin. The man, the reports said, would accompany a youth whose automobile had accidentally run down and killed Melvin. The youth then took the toy and buried him in a field. The reports declared.

"I'm afraid that story will vanish into thin air as have hundreds
of others regarding Melvin," said Graven.

Following close upon the heels of a letter in which a man promised
to return Melvin to his parents
alive, the developments catapulted
the famous so-called kidnapping case
into the limelight today.

It was just a week ago that a Wayne county jury of eight men
and four women freed Elias and Arthur Arnold, father and son, of
"child-stealing" charges in connection with Melvin's disappearance.

The latest reports said that the accidental killing of Melvin by an automobile occurred in the yard of the Arnolds' home at Orrville. The driver of the car, according to the unconfirmed reports had backed
his machine over Melvin's body.

In contrast with Prosecutor
Graven's statement is a declaration
which was said to have been uttered
by Walter Mougey, special prosecutor. Mougey was quoted as saying:

"It is a logical story. I fear it may be true that Melvin is dead."
An unsigned letter, which was written to an Orrville publisher declared that Melvin was still alive
and that the writer would return the boy to his parents for $100 and if he would be granted immunity. Authorities here agreed to the terms,
but the man failed to show up and
it finally was regarded as a cruel
hoax.

County Commissioners Authorize Action of Official

In response to many inquiries regarding delinquent taxes Elmer E.
Walker, county auditor today issued
the following statement:

"The report of the Ohio tax commission for 1928 shows that there were delinquent taxes in the state
of Ohio as follows: delinquent taxes
on real estate $30,988,551.62; and delinquent taxes on personal property $14,117,363.14.

"In Columbiana county on the
same date there were delinquencies
on real estate amounting to $204,- 399.32; and on personal property $138,023.09.

"Acting under section 5696 of the general code the county commissioners in July 1928 authorized the county treasurer to collect all personal delinquencies for 1928 and
previous years.

Enact New Law
"In order to lessen the number
of delinquencies the last legislature
enacted house bill No. 392 Ohio Laws No. 113 providing for more drastic penalties for failure to pay
promptly all real and personal taxes.

"This law provides that if the first half of taxes and assessments
on real estate are not paid at the December collection a penalty of
ten per cent shall be added and 35
the accumulated taxes and the last
installment are not paid at the June collection, a like penalty shall
be added to the last half of the
taxes and assessments.

"This law is even more drastic as applied to personal taxes. It provides that if the first half of personal taxes are not paid at the December collection, a penalty of
ten per cent shall be added and 35
the accumulated taxes and the last
installment are not paid at the June collection, a like penalty shall
be added to the last half of the
taxes and assessments.

TEN PASSENGERS ON BREMEN HURT

Giant Liner Docks After Trip Through Severe
Storms at Sea

New York, Dec. 14.—Ten first
class passengers were injured it was revealed Friday when the giant
liner, Bremen docked after experiencing the worst storm at sea its captain had ever seen.

One passenger suffered a broken
arm and others were injured when thrown about the decks by the violent tossing of the ship.

The Bremen braved a dense fog
to steam through the harbor to her dock accompanied by a screen of
tugboats, which guarded her ahead
and astern.

When his ship came to a halt
at Quarantine, Capt. Ziegenhagen
told of the trouble the Bremen experienced in ploughing through the storm-swept ocean.

"I have never seen worse seas,"
he declared, "not even in a China
sea typhoon."

The mid-sea experiences of the Bremen were typical of the experiences of other ocean liners which arrived here this week.

The French liner, France arrived
Friday night two days late with two persons aboard who were carried
hundreds of miles from their destination because the boat was unable to stop at Plymouth, Eng.

Woman Bandit In Grocery Holdup

Delaware, O., Dec. 14.—Earl Bowers, manager of a chain grocery store here, today was recounting his experiences at the hands of a woman bandit and her two male companions yesterday.

The woman entered the store and asked for a sack of apples. Bowers started to prepare the parcel for her and turned to find himself startling into the muzzle of a revolver.
The woman was quickly reinforced
by her two male companions.
They bound and gagged Bowers
and then robbed the till of $64.

Customers later released the grocery manager.

PRESIDENT SHEK GAINS PRESTIGE WITH VICTORIES

Defeat of Rebel Troops
Ends Serious Crisis
In Regime

Shanghai, Dec. 14.—President
Kiang Kai Shek has successfully
weathered another serious crisis
and appears to have strengthened
his position at the head of the Nanking government observers of far-eastern affairs believed today in the light of the events of the past week.

Reports from the interior stated
that the rebels everywhere were badly disorganized that normal
conditions were being quickly restored
in the important cities which had been affected by the revolt.

Shiang's position was materially strengthened by the declaration of loyalty made by General Yen Shi-Shan, governor of Shanghai. General Yen had previously been reported supporting the powerful
northern military combination of rebels.

General Shih Yu-Shuan, leader of the Pukow rebels who threatened Nanking, also has given in to the Nationalist government, having declared that he was holding himself
and his troops at Pukow awaiting judgment and punishment.

As a result, the Nanking government is confident of suppressing General Pang Seng-Chi whose
troops had attempted to gain control of Hanlow in order to install Wang Ching-Wei, left leader who has just returned to China, as President.

GRUNDYISM

Despite the belligerent outcries of Senator Nye, of North Dakota, it appears that Joseph R. Grundy will take the senate seat denied William S. Vare. The reasons behind the rejection of the latter do not stand in Mr. Grundy's case and his appointment by the governor of Pennsylvania is a practical guarantee of smooth sailing.

Whatever other titles Mr. Grundy may win for himself in the next few years, he holds undisputed right to a very significant one at the present moment—chief of the high tariff lobbyists. His selection to represent the chief of high tariff states is appropriate. As far as Mr. Grundy is concerned, it is also very helpful, because it will enable him to come down out of the gallery, where he is a familiar figure, and pursue his activities on the floor, where he can be in close touch with the battles as they rage.

In view of the fact that it was this champion of the money interests of the east who testified to the opinion that senators from the less important states should tread easily in the vicinity of the toes of the more powerful states, it is safe to predict that his sojourn in the upper house will not be one of complete amicability. His avowed activities as a lobbyist will be another stigma that he will be forced to overcome in the upper house, and, for that matter, in the country at large, which has declared more or less of an open season on gentlemen of his profession.

Mr. Grundy's appointment, although coming from a powerful state, does not meet with general approval. It is not that he is incapable, but rather that he is too capable in his particular field, which is not viewed with favor by a large portion of the country and by the administration. In naming him, Governor Fisher lost an opportunity to clear Pennsylvania's good name and evidently chose to arouse further ill-feeling. Between Mr. Grundy and Mr. Vare there is little to choose, except that the former will enter the senate through the front door. It is a very unfavorable indication of the state of politics in the state of Pennsylvania.

The Colorado supreme court has disbarred Ben. B. Lindsey, former Denver juvenile court judge, from the practice of law in Colorado because of his acceptance while judge of $47,500 for services rendered in connection with the estate of the late W. E. D. Stokes, of New York. Lindsey says he has been framed, but he doesn't deny getting the money, which, we take it, made him a party to the framing.

Director Mary Anderson, of the women's bureau, wants an increased appropriation to enable the bureau to study the effect of speed on fair workers. With a knowledge on the subject limited to observing bargain rushes we unhesitatingly say it's very bad.

What Others Say

GETTING AROUND THE LAW
Over in England, where they have long boasted of their respect for law, a judge showed the other day how to get around the law and make possible publication of the facts brought out at a divorce trial.

For several years the law has been in force forbidding the publication of testimony at divorce trials, but it does not apply to the charge of the judge to the jury. Judge Merrivale, in charging the jury in a case involving titled persons, dwelt much upon the testimony brought out, told what it was and used the names of persons who figured in it. The judge later explained his charge, saying: "I've stated these facts because in my judgment it is not in the public interest that social crimes of this kind should be committed and that particulars of the offenses should be known to the world in which the people live. One of the deterrents to misconduct is publicity."

The court saw to it that the way was opened for publicity which was given in this case, although in all others the law forbidding the publication of testimony has so far been respected.

The people of this country where there are numerous ways of getting around the law will wonder what the attitude of the English will be toward this manner of charging a jury which in effect sets aside a law for an occasion. At any rate, the English stand for publicity is emphasized, despite the law to suppress it.—Minneapolis Journal.

HONOR FOR LILHU ROOT

Lilhu Root richly deserves the award of the gold medal of the National Academy of Design. His legal and political eminence has more or less drawn public attention from his services to art. Yet it was he who drafted the law establishing the National Fine Arts commission and he played a large part in reviving the plan of L'Enfant for the development of Washington. Such services call for formal recognition.

Mr. Root is but one of many Americans distinguished in other lines who have shown an intelligent interest in aesthetic progress. Some have collected paintings which have afterward been turned over to the public. Others have endeavored to advance the cause of artistic education by timely encouragement. In view of these facts the accuracy of calling the American people dollar-chasers or money-grabbers is obvious. There is no land where more generous devotion has been shown to the things of the spirit.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

REGARD TEACHING OF PREVENTIVE HYGIENE

Long ago the Greeks brought the science and art of health building to its highest perfection. But with the evidence of civilization in the case of both Greeks and Romans, luxury and self-indulgence brought vices which caused the downfall of these nations.

DR. C. F. COLWELL

Convinced of the great value of right food, fresh air and exercise, both Greeks and Romans regulated and controlled the food supplies of their nations. Their prowess at games and physical culture has never been surpassed.

We may emulate the ancient Greeks not only in beauty of form and radiant health, but in physical and mental power. Physical and mental development go hand-in-hand. The Greeks knew the value of sun and air baths, and their style of dress allowed the free circulation of air around their bodies.

We might heed the animal world in right living. When an animal is sick it knows instinctively how to treat itself. It abstains from food, rests, takes water or sand baths, its own kind of massage, and eats healing herbs and plants. Primitive man learned much from animals in all these matters. Right food, air and sunshine mean everything in developing health, and the animals knew it before we did.

Today we have public health centers for the study and prevention of disease for many, many years our doctors and hospitals have concentrated on cures for disease, but in these modern days there are great movements for disease prevention and for health maintenance.

In every great city are medical schools and laboratories where important research into every known disease is going on every day. Preventive measures for the public good are being recommended constantly. In every section of the country are great hospitals and clinics where preventative health work is carried on, open to people in every walk of life.

But, after all, what do all these activities amount to unless we apply what is learned? Unless practical use is made of the new knowledge we might as well be living ten centuries ago.

We should be more interested in a discovery for the prevention of some common disease than in something relating to aviation. It means much more to each one of us personally I fear, however, that many persons are utterly unconcerned over health discoveries.

But you should see them when they are sick! They just beg for something to step the pain.

Important as all the curative things are, far more important it is to know how to escape disease. It is to give heed to everything having to do with the prevention of sickness.

Answers to Health Queries

L. D. Q.—What should a baby boy ten months old weigh?
A.—He should weigh between eighteen and twenty pounds.

MRS. W. F. Q.—What causes my six-year-old boy to grit his teeth in his sleep?
A.—This is usually indicative of intestinal worms. Examination of the stool will help to make a definite diagnosis and then proper treatment can be outlined. Have your doctor advise you.

J. S. Q.—Is it wise to take a twelve-month-old baby to the country? What precautions should be taken to guard against typhoid fever, etc?
A.—If the water is boiled and the baby's regular diet is followed, being careful to have everything properly cooked, there should be no danger. If there is any reason to suspect the milk it should be brought to the house.

Smallest Shipment On Record Received

Portland, Dec. 14.—What is believed to be the smallest shipment of any substance ever received by anyone was recently received at the University of Oregon at Eugene by Dr. Roger Williams, professor of chemistry. Its weight was just three hundred-thousandths of an ounce.

The substance, extracted from rice in Java, is known as anti-neurotic vitamin and is to be used in experiments with yeast which Dr. Williams is conducting for the Fleischman Yeast company. Although the quantity is so minute, enough vitamin is in the shipment for 10 experiments. One has already been made and the results noted. The substance came suspended in alcohol from which it is readily extracted. A fellowship to do research in yeast was granted last year to Dr. Williams by the yeast concern.

WOMEN INCREASE POWER IN HOUSE DURING NEW ERA

Year 1929 Among One of Greatest On Record In America

LEGISLATION SETS MANY PRECEDENTS

Way Paved for Permanent Change In Methods In New Enactment

Washington, Dec. 14.—The year 1929 will be set down in history as an epochal era in the development of the national House of Representatives, the "popular branch" of congress.

Not only has the House enacted legislation which sets precedents for future congresses but its personnel has undergone a radical change. Among the most notable changes are the increase in numbers and power of women members and the presence of the first negro in congress in modern political times.

With the enactment of a new reapportionment law, providing for the redistricting of congressional districts in states each ten years, the House has paved the way for a permanent change in the control of legislation, with agrarian interests for the first time since the nation was formed, facing surrender of their preponderant power.

In passing a reapportionment law the House also attempted to permanently fix the membership at 435, its present number. In taking this step, the House abruptly halted a policy which has been followed in nearly every previous reapportionment, of enlarging the House so that no state or no member would lose as a result of the redistricting.

Unwieldy Membership
Although the English House of Commons, French Chamber of Deputies and many other European parliaments have a far larger membership than the House, its leaders have taken the position that legislation cannot be efficiently enacted with a greater number, and that to open the doors to more members would be to lower the standard of its membership. After having completed the short session of the 70th congress, ending March 4 the House reassembled on April 15 for the extraordinary farm relief and tariff session called by President Hoover after his inauguration on March 4.

Nicholas Longworth (R) of Ohio was re-elected speaker; Rep. John Q. Tilson (R) of Connecticut, was again chosen Republican leader and Rep. John N. Gardner (D) of Texas succeeded Finis Garrett of Tennessee as Democratic leader.

The election of 1928 had brought the Republicans their greatest majority in the House. When new members assumed their posts on March 4, the Republicans had a majority of 193, the membership standing: Republicans, 267; Democrats, 163; Farmer-Labor, 1; vacancies, 4.

Easy For Republicans
With this tremendous majority the Republican leaders had little difficulty in enacting the Haugen $500,000,000 farm relief law premised by President Hoover in his campaign. This legislation set a precedent for government aid to agriculture, providing, as it did, for the creation of a Federal Farm Board, the loaning of federal funds up to half billion dollars to finance cooperative marketing organizations and to enable them to build warehouses.

The Hawley tariff bill, named for Rep. Willis C. Hawley (R) of Oregon, chairman of the ways and means committee which framed it, also was passed with difficulty and with some Democratic support. The bill was the answer of the House to President Hoover's request for tariff aid to agriculture and "creek industries."

It immediately precipitated a nationwide controversy, the House being charged with having written the highest tariff bill in history in response to the demands of local interests and without consideration for the consuming public. The protest found response in the senate, where a Democratic-progressive coalition was formed to block it. House leaders, nevertheless, contended that their revision was limited in accordance with the president's request and provided only necessary tariff relief.

Leaders Dictate
The tariff bill emphasized what some critics contend is the fatal weakness of the House. Its large membership precludes free and open debate, with the result that its policies are dictated by a few leaders. They maintain that they are responsive to the will of the House, a statement which is disputed by some members.

The tariff bill was framed by Republicans of the ways and means committee as a party measure, was approved in a Republican caucus, and was passed in the House with very little debate and under a rule which gave virtually no opportunity for important amendments.

The large membership of the House also makes it difficult for one member to achieve prominence, or to dictate legislation by sheer force of oratory and logic. The result is, critics say, that members become merely local representatives of their districts, seeking to get all from the government they can for them, and at the same time insure their reelection. House members must face election every two years, with the result that members are campaigning in some form or other most of the time.

More Women
During the past year the "feminine bloc" of the House has risen to seven members. They are: Mrs.

Acclaimed Corn King Of United States

John L. Pflant, of Hannibal, Mo., becomes the "corn king" by winning the Grand Championship on a single ear of corn exhibit at the International Live Stock Exposition and Grain Show at Chicago.

Edith Nourse Rogers (R) of Massachusetts; Mrs. Florence Kahn (R) of California; Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick (R) of Illinois; Mrs. Ruth Pratt (R) of New York; Mrs. Mary T. Norton (D) of New Jersey; Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen (D) of Florida and Mrs. Pearl Peden Oldfield (D) of Arkansas.

Whereas most of the previous women had been elected as successors to their husbands, Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Bratt and Mrs. Owen won their places "in their own right." All of them made vigorous campaigns, and succeeded in proving to many doubters that a woman can meet a man in a fair fight for congress and win.

The accession of Rep. Oscar DePriest, Negro representative of the first Illinois district (Chicago), occasioned country-wide interest. Not only is he the first of his race to serve in congress in the present century, but he has assumed the role of a crusader with the avowed purpose of bringing other Negro representatives into congress. Born in Alabama, a painter and decorator by trade, a rich man as a result of Chicago real estate operations, DePriest regards himself as a Moses whose mission it is to bring the Negroes to a new position of political equality.

RAILROAD PLANS MERGER SCHEME

New York Central Lines Will Join Others In Gigantic Event

New York, Dec. 14.—The New York Central railroad, it was announced today, plans to put into effect on February 1, its $2,000,000,000 merger scheme, the largest merger in point of property value to be consummated in the United States.

The lines, which will be joined with the New York Central are the Michigan Central and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis.

Last January, the interstate commerce commission approved the Central's acquisition of the two lines on condition that provision be made for the acquisition of certain shore lines in the territories served by the merged roads.

These short lines have not yet been obtained, but it was learned that the commerce commission believes negotiations for them have proceeded to a point where the New York Central may be permitted to put its merger into effect.

LIQUOR DISPUTE FACES ENGLAND

Legality of Selling In Planes Confronts Londoners

London, Dec. 14.—A lively dispute is proceeding on the question whether it is legal to sell liquor in the air.

"The sale of intoxicating liquor in an aircraft is unlawful at the present time," said O. F. Dowsen, government legal expert to the Dring Inquiry Commission recently.

"We sell liquors every day in our air liners and have done so for three years," reply the Imperial Airways Corporation.

ILLINOIS TROOPS CRUSH TROUBLES AT TOVEY MINES

23 Arrested When Plans To Picket District Are Frustrated

Bolton, Ill. Dec. 14.—The state bared its teeth in crushing an incipient reign of trouble at the Tovey mine, near here, late Friday.

Troopers seized and placed under arrest 23 persons, including 7 men and 16 women and girls. The party was preparing to picket mine No. 8.

Their plans were frustrated, however, when troopers suddenly surrounded them and despite curses of the men and screams from the women and girls marched them aboard a special train and headed them for Taylorville where they were locked up in the county jail.

The mine at Tovey has been a storm center for the last two days in the strike being fostered by the National Miners Union.

Pana, Ill. Dec. 14.—Nekemine miners stood firm and frustrated efforts of the flying squadron of National Miners Union pickets to close the Illinois-Indiana Coal corporation mine there.

A force of 50 deputy sheriffs were on duty, following reports that an effort would be made to close the shaft. Pickets were permitted to talk with miners in the business district but were barred from roads leading to the mine and from the area near the entrance to the shaft.

The mine employs normally 600 men and it was estimated that 400 were at work Friday morning.

MURDERERS PAY DEATH PENALTY

Convicted Slayers Die On Gallows of San Quentin Prison

San Quentin Prison, Cal. Dec. 14.—Two men paid the supreme penalty on the gallows here on Friday, the 13th.

With prison plans abandoned at the last minute for a double execution, the two men, George Costello and Antonio Negra, climbed the steps leading to the gallows separately, 25 minutes intervening between the executions.

Costello, convicted of slaying an Oakland bank teller in a holdup, was hanged at 10:03 and pronounced dead 15 minutes later.

Negra, convicted of having slain his brother-in-law and ranch partner, slipped through the trap at 10:28 and was pronounced dead 12 minutes later.

Because of the recent prison riots, Warden Holchen took unusual precautions to guard against any disturbance during the hangings but the executions passed off without incident.

Grim Spectre Of Death Stalks in Ranks of Famous, Taking 12 Important Lives In Past Year

The grim spectre of death stalked rampant through the ranks of the famous in the year just closing, wiping out more than a dozen personages who played important roles in the history of the World war and the years that followed it.

No single twelve months in recent memory saw so many illustrious figures removed from the international horizon. Men whose names were political by-words in the stormy war-time years passed into eternity along with heroes who won undying fame on the battlefields of Flanders.

Hardly a single country of Europe weathered the year without losing at least one man destined to live through the ages as an outstanding figure in the international developments of the first three decades of the twentieth century. Future historians, in sketching the personalities of the men who were active in controlling the destinies of Europe during the war and after, may well refer to 1929 as a "black year of Death" in the history of the world.

Two Immortals
Two immortals, both compelling vivid memories in the minds of inhabitants of the entire civilized world were among those erased from the roster of the living between January 1 and December 30, 1929.

They were Georges Clemenceau, the war-time premier of France; and Marshal Ferdinand Foch, generalissimo of all the allied armies during the closing years of the combat.

The death of Marshal Foch, the first in the long series for which 1929 will become tragically memorable, followed soon on the heels of the passing of two men who had held unparalleled positions in the public and military life of England.

Field Marshal Earl Haig, leader of the British troops in the world war, and England's greatest military hero of the twentieth century, had been the first to go in the closing months of 1928.

Soon after, Lord Oxford was stricken at his country home outside of London. A few days of illness, and a weakened heart removed this great statesman. His death, following so soon that of Earl Haig, brought England to a startled realization that the war and its outstanding figures were of another decade—almost another age—and that the fighters and statesmen who were such forceful, youthful, vigorous figures during the maelstrom were reaching the stage where they fell in the baleful shadow of Death's scythe.

Guiding Genius of Allies
Stunned by these two deaths, the world had not been given time to recover when the news was broadcast that Marshal Foch, France's greatest hero since Napoleon leader of all the millions of allies who had fought for four years in the trenches, and guiding genius of all the Allied forces during the last two years of the combat, lay gravely ill.

For days Foch fought against the inevitable, at times rallying with seemingly super-human strength, but succumbing at last to an illness too grave for his withered, aged body to combat. Foch had wished to die fighting; he died not on the battlefield, but fighting nevertheless, against a disease that would have laid many a younger man, lacking his iron will, low in a much shorter space of time.

Thus Britain had lost her chief soldier and one of her chief statesmen and France her chief soldier and her chief statesman. Not many months were to elapse before Clemenceau also succumbed. The news of the Tiger's passing, with its columns upon columns, in virtually every newspaper of the globe, is still sufficiently fresh in the memory to make a resume unnecessary.

Numerous Others
But these were not all. Numerous other men, whose names during the war and in the years following were almost constantly in the news, passed into eternity in those twelve months.

Among them was Dr. Gustav Stresemann, who died in harness as foreign minister of Germany. A great statesman and a great political leader, Dr. Stresemann guided the difficult destinies of his nation in the years that followed the war; piloted his defeated nation through the maze of reconstruction and rehabilitation, and died with the satisfaction of seeing his principle policies fructify.

Dr. Stresemann was instrumental in obtaining Germany's acceptance to the Dawes and the Young plans for reparations payments. Against terrific obstacles, even within his own party, he fought unflinchingly for acceptance of these schemes as the best way for Germany out of a seemingly hopeless muddle. The gradual return of Germany to a foremost commercial power in the world will stand as an everlasting memorial to the man who made it possible.

Germany lost two other great statesmen in the year just ended. Prince von Baulow, who succeeded Bethmann-Hollweg as chancellor in the early years of the war, died in exile in Italy after a long illness. Prince Max von Baden, the last Imperial chancellor to hold office, succumbed at his estate in Bavaria. To Prince von Baden was credited the achievement of obtaining former Kaiser Wilhelm's signature to a decree of abdication, thereby, in the opinion of historians, saving Germany from internal strife and a government debacle from which she might never have recovered.

Deaths A Coincidence
It was something of a coincidence that two of the European powers should lose outstanding personalities during the many conferences held abroad for the purpose of un-

FIRST STEP IN PROGRAM TAKEN

Public Buildings Bill Favorably Reported for Passage

Washington, Dec. 14.—The first step in the carrying out of the government's program to increase public construction during the next year was taken when a bill appropriating $250,000,000 for public buildings was favorably reported for passage to the house.

Half of this amount is to be spent on building outside the District of Columbia and half inside.

The bill also increases from $35,000,000 to $55,000,000 the amount to be annually appropriated for public buildings outside the District and provides $9,740,000 for the erection of a building to house the U. S. supreme court.

Time for the Truth about WASHING MACHINES An Unlimited "Gold Bond Guarantee" Goes With Every Washer Too many half-truths and enthralls about washing machines have been advertised in recent years. For instance, the claim that clothes can be kept white week after week without soaking and boiling them, and by running them through only ONE suds. Did our grandmothers put dirty clothes in scalding water? The truth is that no washing machine ever made can keep clothes PERMANENTLY free from "that all-over grayish tinge" and that "harsh feel" except by (1) the use of "two successive suds" or (2) by soaking and boiling the clothes, or (3) by the use of caustics or bleaches. Of these three methods, only one is really satisfactory — namely, the "two successive suds" method which is advocated by Good Housekeeping Institute and possessed by Dexter's Fastspin. Yes, we have single washers! Who wants one after using the New Improved Fastspin? Can sell a single washer with ironing machine included, for less than $180. Price Without Sacrifice. For women who are willing to do the extra work which is necessary with any single-tub washer, in order to keep clothes free from grime, the Dexter Company builds the Dexter Speeder. Builders of fine washers for more than a quarter century. The Dexter Company originated the double-tub type of washer 16 years ago, and the first one ever made is still in weekly use. STEADY GLEANERS CLASS

The Steady Gleaners class of the First Friends church, taught by Miss Mary Herbert, had an enjoyable supper meeting Thursday evening at the church.

Charles Barnes, president of the class, was in charge of a program which followed the supper.

Rev. C. F. Bailey, pastor of the church, gave the main talk, and there were brief talks by Raymond Ingram, superintendent of the Bible school; L. L. McCluggage, assistant superintendent; Mrs. McCluggage; E. I. Goldy and Everett Allen. Other numbers were:

Song by a trio, composed of Mrs. Edgar Derr, Mrs. Harry Parsons and Mrs. Grant Elton, accompanied by Mrs. Harold England; piano solo, Harold Shuster; song by Mrs. L. L. McCluggage, Mrs. Harold England, Miss Olive Vincent, Miss Pearl Walker, accompanied by Miss Bessie Park; vocal duet, Raymond Ingram and E. I. Goldy; recitation, Genevieve Everstine.

Several contests entertained and these were in charge of Mrs. Harry Parsons.

LUTHERAN SOCIETY

The Women's Missionary society of the English Lutheran church had a joint meeting with the Jessie Thomas circle Friday evening at the church.

"Christmas on Our Mission Fields" was the subject and several members had part on the program.

A candle lighting service was a feature and Mrs. G. D. Keister read the story of "The Other Wise Man" by Henry VanDyke. Miss Mina Greenstein contributed a vocal solo.

The Missionary society will be in charge of the Christmas baskets sent from this church to needy families.

Alice and Mary Burger, associate hostesses, served refreshments.

HOME CIRCLE

Mrs. Rose Zimmerman and Mrs. D. K. Zimmerman were associate hostesses to members of the Home Circle club Friday afternoon at their home, south of Greenford.

Mrs. Roy Zimmerman and Mrs. Julia Evans were welcomed as visitors.

Plans were made for a Christmas party for the members and their families to be held at the home of Mrs. Jerry Kendig, south of Greenford, Sunday.

The next regular meeting will be on the second Thursday in January.

HOMES TO CHAIR

Miss Grace P. Orr entertained members of the choir of the Presbyterian church Thursday evening at her home, South Lincoln ave.

Following the rehearsal of a Christmas cantata, the hours were spent informally, with music. The hostess served a buffet lunch. A miniature Christmas tree graced the table. Miss Orr was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Anna Sapp.

FRIDAY NIGHT CLUB

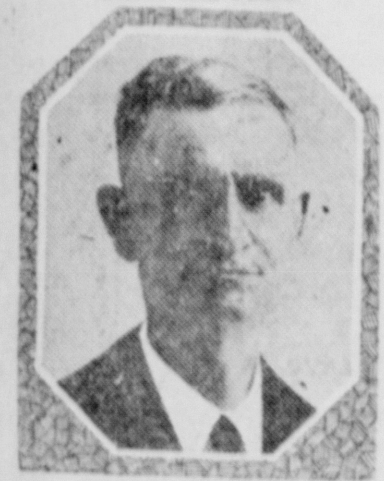

With three tables in play the hours were devoted to five hundred at a meeting of the Friday Night club last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beech, West Pershing st.

Roy McLaughlin and Mrs. Lois Bailey shared first and second honors, respectively, in the games. A three-course lunch was served.

Cincinnati Man Freed of Many Ills—Declares Konjola Solved When Others Had Failed.

MR. EDWARD BOBBITT

"I have health again, and I owe it all to this new Konjola," said Mr. Edward Bobbitt, 12 Mercer street, Cincinnati, Ohio. "For the last four months I had been unable to work on account of poor health. My ailments were many. My stomach was out of order and prevented my food from digesting properly. I was also a sufferer from kidney and liver trouble, constipation, and then I developed a severe case of neuritis and rheumatism. The pains were almost unbearable."

"I thought my case hopeless as nothing I tried did any good. However, Konjola caused me to quickly change my mind. Why? I could almost feel Konjola when it went to work. Soon my stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels were restored to normal functioning. Then the neuritis and rheumatism was swept away. I actually seem to be a different person. That's my experience with Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Salem at all J. H. Lease drug stores, (Mr. Kaminsky), and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section—Adv.

SUCCESS CLUB

An informal social time was enjoyed by members of the Success club at a meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nora Bursen, North Lincoln ave. All members were present.

Christmas gifts were exchanged. Mrs. Bursen served a lunch at a table ornamented with Christmas decorations. The center piece was pink roses.

In four weeks the members will meet with Mrs. Harold Babb, Vine st.

CHRISTIAN SOCIETY

Miss Ella Strawn gave an interesting talk on Christ's Mission in Youngstown, at a meeting of the Missionary society of the Christian church, Friday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Minnie Baughman's division was in charge of the program. Mrs. Cora Schwartz gave a select reading and Mrs. R. D. Painter contributed a vocal solo. Mrs. Howard McCurdy's division served refreshments.

AT CAMP HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoffman won honors at bridge when Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Camp entertained their club associates Friday evening at their home, Lisbon rd. The hostess served a lunch with yellow and white tones predominating.

Meeting in two weeks the members will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, East State st.

MRS. ZIMMERMAN HOSTESS

Entertaining at a 1 o'clock luncheon Friday, Mrs. H. V. Zimmerman received her club associates at her home, North Union ave.

Bridge was the main pleasure of the afternoon with three tables in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. James Hill and Mrs. H. M. Hickling. The members exchanged Christmas gifts.

NIGHT OWL CLUB

Night Owl club associates were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lottman, Etna st., Thursday evening. The hours were devoted to five hundred. Lunch was served. In two weeks the members will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Munsell, North Ellsworth ave.

DAMES OF MALTA

One application for membership was received at a meeting of Peace Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, Friday evening at the hall.

A grab bag lunch was a feature. At a meeting in two weeks there will be a practice for initiation and gifts will be exchanged.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Eighteen friends of Forrest Green carried out a surprise for him Friday evening at his home, East State st., to make happy his birthday anniversary.

Cards and music were diversions and lunch was served. Forrest was presented gifts.

Truancy Excused By School Board

BUCKEY, O., Dec. 14.—The Crawford county board of education members were unanimously voted to be good sports today by 16 youths who were charged with truancy.

The youths, allegedly, "skipped" school on November 15, the first day of hunting season.

The board ruled that as the students were hunting they were students of nature and that therefore they were not really "skipping" classes.

Christmas is a merry season. It should be so. "Behold I bring you glad tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." The difficulty is that we have turned this holy day into a holiday, and have forgotten the true meaning of Christmas. We give gifts to one another, but forget to give a gift to the King whose birthday we celebrate. Would it not put our Christmas giving on a good foundation, backed by a good conscience, if this year we would give a gift to Him first, and then to others. As we sit in the pews on Sunday, let us remember Him in our giving.

McKinley Outclasses Salem High In Season's Cage Inaugural

Canton Basketeers Win Decisive Victory Over Stonemen by 40-22 Score

A fast-stepping Canton McKinley aggregation virtually snowed Salem High's cage combine under a barrage of spectacular offensive work and close defensive tactics in the opening basketball contest of the 1929-30 season for both games by a 40-22 score at the Salem High gym Friday night.

There is little to relate on the Red and Black cage debut of the year except that it was outclassed throughout the entire 32 minutes of play. Canton displayed a well-balanced combination of basket-shooters and goal defenders that proved superior to the Salem team in every department of the fracas.

The boys' varsity opened its season in this inconspicuous event but the reserves came through with a 15-13 victory at East Liverpool and Coach Anne Oeschlenger's sextet of lasses eked out a decisive 38-27 decision over the Ceramic City effeminate cagers. The girls game was played as a preliminary to the Salem High-Canton engagement.

Result Unexpected
The result was hardly expected as Coach Dwight Peabody placed on the floor a team that was made up of lads that had never in their basketball careers seen action in a varsity court battle, while The Quaker Citizens had four of the regulars of the successful campaign of 1928-29. But the invaders were veterans from the fact that they had played together a solid season under the colors of the Canton McKinley reserves and performed with the same machine-like precision that carried them through a great season last year.

The action started with Odom tossing in a point from the foul-line on a foul by Glenn Whinnery. Whinnery evened the count with a point from the free throw stripe. Greenisen added a second and then placed Salem ahead for what proved the only time during the game in which the Red and Black led, by zipping the leather through the circle from the side of the court.

Forsythe, George and Black each scored field buckets in rapid-fire plays. Odom added a foul and field basket and R. Schreiber tallied a free throw to complete McKinley's scoring for the period. Foul shots by Smith and Sartick brought Salem's total to six points, the quarter ending with McKinley leading, 11-6. Canton scored seven of its 13 points to six points, the quarter on fouls, more than Salem tallied during the entire period. Early's two field goals and fouls by Smith and Greenisen accounted for the Red and Black's scoring, the period ending with the count 24-12, Canton leading.

Greenisen Tallies
Greenisen caged a nice long shot from the side of the court to inspire hopes for Salem at the start of the third session and Smith came back with a fielder and a point from the gift stripe. Canton retaliated with four consecutive goals from the field in rapid succession and rolled up its lead to 15 points.

Stone and Peabody both made numerous substitutions in the final period and the final whistle blew with each school being represented by an entirely new combination. McKinley again, however, held the scoring edge, totalling eight points in this last eight minutes of play, to Salem's five.

It was not a discouraging opening for the Quaker City team for Canton really showed far greater class than had been anticipated. Peabody's men never gave the home-

Sensational Year on New York Curb Market Ends With Prices Far Beneath 1929 Expectation

New York, Dec. 13.—Listed stocks on the New York Curb Market paralleled closely the price movements of securities throughout the country in the past year with the fluctuations of the market governed largely by the trends on the Big Board, as the New York Stock Exchange is familiarly known.

The net result of the year's activity will undoubtedly prove a disappointment to those whose fortunes have to some extent been dependent upon the continued appreciation of security values, for stock prices at the beginning of the year were substantially higher than those which will be recorded after the final day of trading for 1929.

Happenings and events in the financial world in this period, occurred in a fashion that will leave an indelible impression in the minds of those who were close followers of the rise and fall of the most notable bull market in history.

Was Promising Year
The year had opened in particularly promising manner. Stock averages as measured by leading issues were establishing new high records. Except for minor reactions the trend had pointed upward, simultaneously with the business boom that was in progress in the industrial world.

The first half of this forward march of security values occurred in the latter part of March. A money squeeze which sent call money skyrocketing for three days, namely March 25th, 26th and 27th, with the heavy selling centered on the 26th.

With this out of the way, the price levels of the main body of curb stocks continued to forge steadily higher, with traders utilizing immediate reactions to accumulate further lines of listed stocks.

There seemed to be no limit in sight to the height to which market values were soaring, and any apparent signs of gathering clouds, which were ignored in the buying melee which had absolutely gotten out of bounds.

Over Labor Day
Then shortly after the resumption of trading following the Labor Day holiday, something seemed to snap. The close of August had seen price levels at their highest point, and wide expressions of belief were given that further heights would be reached in the autumn months, with business apparently entering upon its crest wave.

But prices in September were disappointing. Values instead of going higher were pointing downward. September proved to be a month of reactionary sessions, with various days of sharp recovery sandwiched in between, to permit the rosy tinge to remain. The end of the month saw a drop of some thirty points from the general averages registered at the outset of the autumn period.

October opened with no outward sign of the memorable events that were to follow. In the first half month, the market seemed to regain the greater part of its equilibrium, and prices rose in sudden and abrupt rallies. Shortly after the middle of the month, further reactionary tendencies set in, and the market sagged perceptibly, until the final climax day was reached on October 24, when all previous records for volume were broken on the Curb and the New York Stock Exchange. A record number of 6-

237,400 shares changed hands in the Curb market on that day.

Decline Follows
Further sharp declines followed until the epochal day of October 29 was reached when a total of 7,096,300 shares were bought and sold amid the crumbling of a price structure which had taken half a decade to build up.

Although further price readjustments were to follow which set new low levels for the year, there was no approach in the volume of trading to rival these two outstanding sessions. The market since that time developed largely into a trading affair, with evidence apparent that the long forgotten spectre of a bear market had finally taken hold of price movements.

There were two important groups of stocks around which the greater part of the daily trading converged. These were the utility and investment trust divisions, with the wild gyrations of the former group, the outstanding factor in the long advance.

Investment trusts were exceedingly popular in the bull trading early in the year as this form of stock took quick grasp upon the public imagination. There were numerous other issues which were also the centers of heavy activity, but the movement of the utilities, and investment issues were a governing factor in the market trends of the general list.

Records Established
There were several records of importance established on the Curb market in 1929. One was the sale of the largest single block of stock ever to change hands in any security exchange throughout the world. This took place on November 4th, when the initial transaction in Cities Service common stock was one of 225,000 shares.

Previous to this, the record had been held by Commonwealth and Southern Power common stock, which on two different occasions, namely on June 15th and June 28th had recorded its initial quotation in blocks of 100,000 shares.

The tremendous growth of the Curb market can in some measure be grasped by the following information concerning it. There are more than 2,500 stocks and bonds traded in. This takes in over 2,000 stocks, both foreign and domestic, about 350 domestic bonds, and approximately 150 foreign bonds.

The total par value of the stocks regularly dealt in is more than $15,000,000,000, in addition to over 400,000,000 shares without par value.

The volume of trading in stocks and bonds in 1929 was record-breaking. Operations approximated 500,000,000 shares of stock, and $750,000,000 par value of bonds. Between 500 and 700 issues were dealt in daily during the year, with activity in many sessions running higher than the latter figure.

Wide Ticker Service
An illustration of the vast interest in the Curb Market can be obtained from the extension of the ticker service which now operates in more than 150 cities, reaching west to the Pacific Coast, and south to New Orleans. Tickers at present installed approximate 3,000 with further additions continually being added.

Since the Curb Market entered its present quarters in the early summer of 1921, the value of regular membership, which is limited to 550 members, has grown enormously. The price of a seat has risen from a low figure of $3,750 in 1921, to a sum of $254,000 established in September, 1929.

The nation-wide interest which price fluctuations on the Curb Market have attracted brings it definitely into place with the New York Stock Exchange, and the London Stock Exchange, as the great security markets of the world.

Alcohol Truck Is Seized On Highway
Painesville, O. Dec. 14.—A man who gave his name as Mike Donby, Cleveland truck driver, was held in jail here today in default of a $500 fine following his arrest and the seizure of his truck loaded with 850 gallons of alleged alcohol.

The man said he was bringing the shipment from Erie, Pa., to Cleveland for a man whose name he did not know. Donby pleaded guilty when arraigned on charges of transporting liquor. Tests of the confiscated fluid at Painesville Memorial hospital revealed traces of wood alcohol, it was said.

Bomb Wreck Home
Cleveland, Dec. 14.—A bomb explosion early today ripped off the front porch of the home of Benjamin Cohen, supervisor and investigator of the Kosher meat department of Swift & Co's plant here. Racketeers in a Kosher meat war are believed responsible for the blast. Cohen told police that his life has been threatened on several occasions by enemies who demanded he raise the price of Kosher beef.

Royal Gems Await Buyer In London

London, Dec. 13.—Formerly the personal possessions of the late Czar and Czarina of Russia, one hundred articles and gems are on view in a Regent Street London shop-window awaiting a buyer.

Experts declare they are among the most exquisite works of Fabergé, the Russian Court jeweler, and other noted workmen, and represent the finest workmanship that Russia and Asia have combined to produce.

Prominent among the articles is a cigarette-box of moss agate, heavily set with jewels, and bearing the arms of Imperial Russia. It was found on a chair in the Winter Palace just after the Czarina left the palace shortly to die at the hands of Bolshevik executioners. A number of the Czarina's own brand of cigarettes were in the box when it was discovered.

Other treasures offered for sale are the robes worn by the Czar and Czarina at their coronation; the robes of the Archbishop of St. Petersburg and a magnificent golden, jewel-studded chalice taken from his cathedral; the blazing Order of St. Catherine worn by the Czar on State occasions; and many other beautiful objects which cannot be matched anywhere in the world.

Crowds are daily besieging the Regent Street store to gaze at the treasures, the true value of which cannot be estimated in dollars and cents.

The partner of the firm which brought the objects to London from Russia told International News Service there still remained in the Hermitage in Moscow royal treasures among which the magnificent specimens now on view here would pale almost into insignificance.

"There are single jewels in the Hermitage," he said, "which no man in the world—however wealthy—could buy. They are priceless."

Thieves Ransack Cleveland Home
Cleveland, Dec. 14.—Police search was under way here today for thieves who last night ransacked the Garfield Heights home of Joseph W. Cherny, general passenger agent of the Missouri and Pacific railroad here, and escaped with $2,400 in stock certificates, $10,000 in life insurance policies and five bank books.

Cesar may have crossed the Rubicon, but he might not do so well these days on the average street during rush hour.

COURT NEWS

Divorce Actions

In the divorce and alimony action filed by Georgia Little of East Liverpool, against her husband, John Little, the defendant according to a journal entry is to pay the plaintiff $50 for the expense of the suit and in addition $30 monthly until further order.

A motion to strike out the second paragraph in the alimony petition filed by Florence V. McCune against her husband, Ernest H. McCune, has been sustained by the court, but in all other respects the motion has been overruled. Exceptions have been entered for both plaintiff and defendant.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty Mary J. Bailey has been granted a divorce from her husband, Herbert Bailey, and she has been restored to her maiden name, Mary Jane Perry.

Divorce action filed by Seymour Askin against his wife Catherine Askin and the petition filed by Albert A. Sickles against his wife, Iva May Sickles have been dismissed by the court for want of prosecution, and at the costs of the plaintiffs.

Sale Confirmed

A sale has been confirmed, a deed ordered and a decree of distribution entered in the foreclosure action filed by the Federal Building & Loan Co. against George C. Jettison and others.

Injunction Dismissed

The injunction petition filed by Pauline Nasse against the county commissioners has been dismissed by the plaintiff and at her costs. The plaintiff in this case sought an order preventing the construction of a new road between the Beaver bridge at Lebanon on the Lincoln highway and the tracks of the P. L. & W. railroad.

Asks Foreclosure

Through its counsel Charles C. Connell, the Firestone bank of Lebanon has filed a foreclosure petition in common pleas court against Amelia and Roy Scott to recover $1,000 and interest said to be owing on a series of notes.

Foreclosure Dismissed

On its own motion the foreclosure petition filed by the Union Savings & Loan company against Harold E. Flowers has been dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff. The former judgment and order of sale entered in the case has been set aside by Judge W. F. Lones.

Granted Leave To File

A. H. Ambler, plaintiff in a $10,000 damage action filed against the Consolidated Cleaning company, has been granted leave to file an amended petition at once.

Settled at Costs

There has been a settlement at the costs of the plaintiff in the $10,000 accident claim filed in common pleas by Howard M. MacDonald against Harry M. Haver.

Ford Glenn and Gene Appear At State Theater Tonight

What is conceded to be one of the most popular radio features on the air today will make a personal appearance at the State theater this afternoon and tonight only. Gene Ford and Glenn hold the fan mail records at five of the country's largest radio broadcasting stations and likewise hold theater attendance records in virtually every city they have appeared.

The trio presents an entertaining act consisting entirely of popular musical numbers intermingled with comedy by the well known "Juke and Lena." Gene, Ford and Glenn will appear during four different performances scheduled at 2:30, 6, 8, and 10 p. m. today.

On the screen and co-featured with the popular trio is "The Night Parade" starring Hugh Trevor, Robert Ellis, Aileen Pringle and Dorothy Gulliver. Ann Pennington, the miss with the well known "glorified limbs" is also included in the cast.

GRUNDY ASSUMES SENATORIAL POST

Pennsylvania Man Given Friendly Reception at First Session

Washington, Dec. 14.—Joseph R. Grundy, the grand daddy of all lobbyists, got to work on time as he assumed his new duties as junior senator from Pennsylvania.

Grundy was one of the first senators on the senate floor when that body convened at 11 o'clock. He was accompanied again by Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, and was warmly greeted by a number of his new colleagues.

The senate's reception was very friendly. Both Grundy and his critics apparently "forgetting" the tirade of abuse heaped on him yesterday.

Ask Wage Limit In House Resolution

Washington, Dec. 14.—A congressional resolution prohibiting employees from reducing wages below the 1929 wage scale was introduced in the house today by Rep. Sabath (D) of Illinois.

He would accomplish his purpose by prohibiting articles going into interstate commerce if the producers had lowered their wage scales.

Sabath asserted that many employers are reducing wages despite the pledge made to President Hoover.

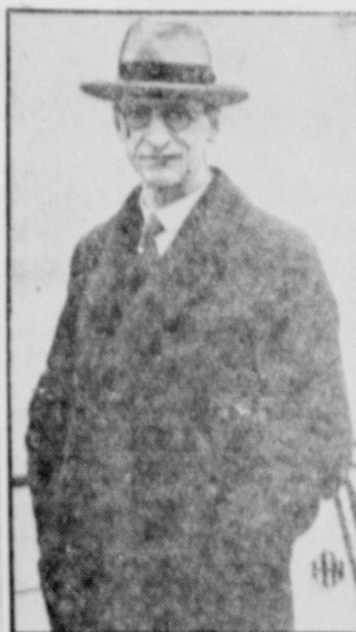

"Hell Week" Taboo

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 14.—Harassed fraternity pledges view with approval the abolition of "hell week" on the campus at Northwestern university. "Hell Week," for those who do not know, is the harrowing seven days of initiation into fraternities, when pledges are forced to do all sorts of embarrassing and idiotic "stunts" in order to qualify for the mysteries of their particular "frat."

The abolition movement was sponsored by Robert W. Hicks, president of the inter-fraternity council and by James Armstrong, dean of men at Northwestern. Other universities are expected to follow suit.

Still the "criminal element" would include almost everybody if congress should pass every law suggested by anybody.

Eamon DeValera, First Irish President, On Visit to New York

Eamon DeValera, first President of the Irish Republic from 1919 to 1922 was among the passengers on the S. S. Republic. The noted Irish leader has had a stormy career. He was sentenced to death for his part in the Irish insurrection of 1916 and is leader of the Fianna Fail party, the opposition party in the Free State Government.

FLIERS ATTEMPT LONG DISTANCE NON-STOP TRIP

Heroic Aviators Plan To Start Spectacular Hop From Seville Today

Seville, Dec. 14.—Within a few hours the world may be gripped by the spectacular attempt of Captain Leon Challe, of France, and Major Larre-Borges, of Uruguay, to link Europe and Montevideo by a non-stop flight.

Captain Challe, who established a former record for straight-line distance, and Major Larre-Borges, hero of a South Atlantic flight, arrived here several weeks ago from Villacoublay Aerodrome, near Paris. They have announced, weather permitting, they will start the flight tomorrow.

It is extremely doubtful, according to experts, whether a flight from Seville to Montevideo would set a new long distance record, which the airmen wish to do, so they may start from Istres, France. By taking off from Istres, the Franco-Uruguayan team might nose through the record by a few miles.

They are flying a Breguet-Bidon biplane, powered with two 450 horsepower Lore motors.

ALLEGED SLAYER FREED BY JURY

Acquittal Verdict Given In Murder Case In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Dec. 14.—Salvatore Accardi, who was arrested last June at Staten Island on charges of murder in connection with the killing of State Trooper John J. Downey, was acquitted by the jury of eleven men and one woman after more than 17 hours of deliberation.

Downey was shot and killed while assisting in the breaking up of a Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting at Acmetonia, Pa., on August 22, 1927.

Totten Nominated

Washington, Dec. 14.—President Hoover today nominated Ralph J. Totten of Tennessee, to be resident minister for the union of South Africa.

THE SECRET OF GOOD CHEER
THE members of our Christmas Savings Club are able to plan their Christmas giving whenever they want to, because they know just what they will have to spend.
There's no guesswork about it—no scrimping and pinching, nor running up of bills for payment in the new year.
These forehanded people began twelve months ago to prepare for this beautiful festival, knowing full well that preparedness is the secret of its good cheer. Their gift-giving is insured by their Christmas Savings Club.
